Continuation of the Interview of Leviathan, the Devil of Patriotiſm, with Nicholas Nibble, Eſq; the Student of ---------.

To the AUTHOR of the WEEKLY REGISTER.

SIR,

THE Devil, the Devil himſelf, quoth the Scholar, in the Words of the wiſe Sancho Pança, has put me on this Buſineſs, and yet I am ſo infatuated as to undertake it; 'tis reverſing my own Principles, ſiding with Faction and Diſloyalty, and declaring War againſt Senſe and Honeſty together: I am certainly inchanted out of my Senſes, and the Gain may be as much a Cheat as the Cauſe I engage in.——Here the Libel he had juſt adoped as his own, turn'd immediately into a Bank-Note in his Hand, the Title appear'd an Earneſt of future Favours, the Sum took Place of the Motto, and every Circumſtance of the Craftſman was comprehended in fifty Pounds.——This gave him ſome Satisfaction, and there was but one Scruple now remaining; my Reputation, continued he, my Reputation will ſuffer in this Affair; I ſhall be conſider'd as a Hackney-Writer, a Snake in the Graſs, a Moth in the Common-wealth, a Traitor in Diſguiſe: No Man of Integrity will keep me Company, I ſhall be debas'd to the Level of the over-grown dull Pupil-Mongers I have lampoon'd, and deſpis'd.——Will Money make amends for the Loſs of my good Name? Will Intereſt atone for the Want of Innocence? Will Hypocriſy be an Equivalent for Diſaffection?——The Devil laugh'd at this Appearance of Delicacy, and reply'd in this Manner.——Brother Nick, for from hence forward we are Friends and Relations, this laſt was a Maſter-ſtroke; I have been preparing you to cheat the World, but I never expected you to cheat the Devil: You have attempted it with a very good Grace; this Reluctance, theſe Expoſtulations become you very well; with any Body elſe they might anſwer a good End, and deceive as effectually as you deſire them; but they are of no Account with me; Fraud, and I have been intimate ſo long, that 'tis not in her Power to betray me; your Method was good, but you exercis'd it on a wrong Perſon.——I take it as a good Omen, 'tis true, and eſteem it a thorough Recommendation; no one could be qualified as an Ignis fatuus to miſlead a whole People, unleſs his Genius was ſanguin enough to undertake the Devil too.——However, I will not compliment your Cunning at the Expence of your Reputation neither; you are a Craftſman indeed, but you ſhall appear in a quite oppoſite Character, if you will be rul'd by me, and make my Perſon and Conduct the Original of yours.——Obſerve the Compoſure of my Eye, the Ingenuity of my Face, the Facetiouſneſs of my Smile, and the upright Turn of my whole Manner: Do you think what you ſee is real; do you imagine ſuch amiable Features belong to the Devil of Patriotiſm? Can you believe Leviathan is the Angel he appears to be? No, you have too much Senſe, and, entre nous, 'tis only my travelling Habit thro' this Part of the World.——I can aſſure you, we Devils are Perſons of the higheſt Decorum, and always think it our Duty to imitate the Manners and Faſhions of the People committed to our Charge.——In Compliment to your Country I always appear as a Patriot, and chuſe my Dreſs accordingly; by this Means I preſide in political Clubs, and am always the loudeſt Advocate for Liberty; by this Means I am the Oracle at every diſaffected Coffee-houſe, from St. James's to White-Chapel; by this I gain Credit on the Exchange, and circulate ſeaſonable Lies to Advantage; by this I am admitted among Fox-Hunters, as the Genius of the Nation, and when their Cry is loudeſt, they'll ſlumber over their Bottle, to hear me declaim about Gibraltar and Dunkirk; by this my weekly Libels have the moſt Weight with the People, and give the ſole Sanction to their political Creed.——By this Means I influence the very Senate itſelf, and make a Figure as the firſt of Patriots.——In ſhort, Diſſimulation is the whole Secret, and, if you practiſe it with the ſame Skill, I'll inſure you the ſame Succeſs.——But now I have ſhewn you what I appear to be, it mayn't be amiſs to make you ſenſible what I really am; a propo the Auction's over, and the Company gone: I need not caution you not to be terrified, we are become too well acquainted to give any Uneaſineſs on either Side.——As ſoon as the Devil of Patriotiſm had ſaid this, he took off his Maſque, and, underneath it, appear'd a Face that had long been familiar to the Scholar and the whole Nation: Leviathan obſerv'd his Surprize, and the Occaſion of it, and told him he had once lent out his Face to a Mortal, and therefore 'twas no Wonder if he was acquainted with it already.——The Scholar recollected every Feature of Pride, Ambition, and Avarice; every Scar of Diſappointment and Ignominy; every Stroke of Vanity and Self-Applauſe; and hardly paus'd a Moment to determine who they had belong'd to.——The Patriot was now loſt in the Ruffian, the Libertine, the Villain; 'twas hard to reſolve which prevail'd moſt, which deſerv'd the firſt Place, or ought to give a Name to the whole: But the Face it ſeems was the leaſt Part of the Diſcovery; the Devil reſolv'd to make his Pupil acquainted with the very Foundation of his Politicks, and enter him into the firſt Principles of modern Patriotiſm: For this Purpoſe he unveil'd his Boſom, and, muttering certain cabaliſtical Words, the Scholar was ſuddenly inabled to ſee his Heart, and examine every Occurrence that paſs'd there; the Surface ſeem'd transparent, and the Inſide was crowded with Objects in a continual Hurry, appearing, and diſappearing ſucceſſively, as we may ſuppoſe the Proſpects of the Globe change in its Circulation round the Sun, its Centre; Hints of Villany of all Kinds, the Embrios and Seeds of Miſchief, the full-grown and mature Births of Ruin; the Recollections of compleated Evils throng'd upon one another, and joſtled for Precedency: Ambitious Views, Stratagems of Fraud, betray'd Friendſhips, Vows of Vengeance blended themſelves together, and form'd ſuch Groups of Wickedneſs and Deformity as were beyond the Reach of Imagination.——Craft and Treaſon chang'd the Scene perpetually, and diverted the Attention from the Horror of one Image. by the Novelty of another; every Appearance of Truth, Juſtice, and Honeſty were thrown behind, nor were ever ſuffer'd to mingle a ſingle Idea, or add one Grace to the Picture.——The Scholar himſelf was amaz'd at the Proſpect before him, and half recoil'd from the Union he had ſo lately aſſented to; but the Devil perceiving his Uncertainty, in an Inſtant convey'd his own Heart into the Scholar's Boſom, and by the Greatneſs of his Power fix'd it there for ever: His Pupil ſunk under the Operation into a Trance of Numbneſs and Inſenſibility, and, when he wak'd, found ſo little Alteration, that he was not ſenſible of the Change, and conſider'd it only as a Dream.

[To be continued.]

HELI, the Turkiſh Traveller, to Oſmyn, a Student of the Civil Law, at the Port.

AT my Departure I promis'd thee my Correſpondence as often as Opportunity or any Thing material offer'd, that was worthy of Communication.——Thou haſt the laudable Curioſity of inquiring into the Maxims and Cuſtoms of foreign Nations, that thou may'ſt grow wiſer thyſelf by the Information; the Courſe of thy Studies at preſent hinder thee from being an Eye-Witneſs, and my roving Inclination has furniſh'd me with the Means of ſupplying that Defect, without putting thee to the Hazard or Inconvenience, that is inſeparable from ſuch an Undertaking.——I was uneaſy at home till I began it, and abroad I am uneaſy till 'tis over.——I look on every Excurſion as a Kind of Task that I am oblig'd to perform, and conſequently the Execution is a Pain.——I long to return to my native Country, to breathe the Air that firſt receiv'd me into Being, to adore the incomprehenſible SUPREAM according to the Purities of our holy Religion, to reſalute the Faces that were familiar to me, renew my Acquaintance with the Proſpects that delighted my Infancy, and have been the Entertainment of my riper Years; to enjoy a Traveller's ſincereſt Pleaſure in relating the Series of my paſt Adventures, recount the Wonders I have ſeen, and be congratulated on the Dangers I have eſcaped.——Believe me, Oſmyn, every Man has an involuntary Prejudice in Favour of the Country he was born in, its Laws, Cuſtoms, Manners, and Climate; we are wedded even to its Faults, and contract a Narrowneſs by that Means, that is unworthy humane Nature: 'Tis undoubtedly meritorious to be moſt particularly concern'd for the Society we belong to, but Foreigners are Men as well as we, and Country-Men too, with Regard to the Inhabitants of any other Planet.——All theſe have their peculiar Excellencies, and a true Philoſopher ſhould diſingage himſelf of all Partiality, to admire the Virtue that is a Stranger to his own Practice, and is unknown to his Country.——Neither ſhould he only admire, but make it a Habit to himſelf; this is the true End of Travelling, and this is what I labour continually to attain.——'Tis true the Narrowneſs I complain of is univerſal, and the Nazarenes who travel ſo much, are, in general, as much corrupted with it as the Muſſulmans, who, till very lately, had no Notion of any Excellency, or Beauty beyond the Bounds of his ſublime Highneſſes Dominion.——The untravell'd Engliſh, in particular, are deeper in this Prejudice than any other Nation; they verily believe that Nature has made their Iſland the very Paradiſe of the Globe; they not only applaud their Religion, and their Laws, but even their Climate, and Soil, as ſuperior to all others; when, by the Unhappineſs of their Situation, they are liable to more Inclemencies than moſt other Countries in Europe.——Thoſe among them who have travelled, frequently acquire as unaccountable a Partiality on the other Side of the Queſtion, and fancy nothing at home comparable to what they were entertain'd with abroad; they recollect every Circumſtance of foreign Beauty with Rapture, look upon what is native with Contempt in the Compariſon; affect a Delicacy in Judgment, and grow ſick of every Circumſtance that us'd to be their higheſt Entertainment.——Both theſe are certainly in an Error, the laſt by injuring their Country in Complaiſance to Foreigners, and the firſt by extolling it in the wrong Place.—If the Engliſh Climate is bad, the Conſtitution of their Government is moſt admirable, and makes ample Amends for the Defects of Nature; Liberty is the Foundation of it, the Monarch himſelf is circumſcrib'd by Laws, and the People make a Part of the Legiſlature; 'twould be Honour and Happineſs to be born in Greenland with ſuch Advantages, and Misfortune to breathe the Air of Eden without it.——Dear Oſmyn could Study or Travel interweave any Part of this ineſtimable Priviledge with the Laws of the Muſſulmans, we ſhould neither of us ſuffer the Sands of Time to waſte in vain; the Angel of Death would find us buſy in the Cauſe of our Fellow-Creatures, and would be commiſſion'd to ſpare us a while longer for their Sakes.——I tell thee an Hour ſo added would be worth an Age of Idleneſs, or Infamy.——Adieu, I wiſh we could tranſplant this Northern Tree of Life to the Gardens of the Orient, that we might taſte of Paradiſe on this Side the Grave.——But we muſt be contented with our Lot; Happineſs is divided among Mankind, and the Engliſh Nazarenes have an elder Brother's Portion.

The Copy of a Letter from the Reverend and Learned Mr. NEWTE, Rector of TIVERTON in Devonſhire, to Mr. MARKHAM, Schoolmaſter in London.

SIR, Tiverton, Auguſt 4. 1731.

YOURS of the 26th of the laſt Month came to my Hands Yeſterday, and I take the firſt Opportunity of thanking you for the very friendly Concern you expreſs for the Misfortunes of your former Acquaintance in this Place, and for your kind Wiſhes and Endeavours on their Behalf. As you know the Town, you will be able to gueſs at the preſent ruinous Condition of it, when I acquaint you * that all the Houſes from Loman Bridge, to the Weſt End of High ſtreet (a few about the new Church only excepted) and all the Dwellings backward on either Side, which were very numerous, together with the greateſt Part of † Bariton and Bampton-ſtreets, alſo ſeveral publick Buildings, as an Alms-houſe, Cornmarket-houſe, Market-Croſs and Shambles are entirely laid in Aſhes. The Loſs is ſo great in Houſes and Goods, that we can hardly make a juſt Eſtimation of it, and I believe 100,000l. will not be ſufficient to reſtore Things to the State they were in before the Fire. But as this general Damage is made up of the Sufferings of the Rich and Poor together, it is not, I preſume, ſo much the Subject of your Enquiry, as the particular Neceſſities and Diſtreſſes of the Inhabitants, as fall more directly under the Intention of Mens Charity on this Occaſion. We have made a proper Diſtinction in the Account we have taken of the People's Loſſes, between ſuch as are able, and ſuch as are not able to bear them; and have been as exact and particular as poſſible with reſpect to the latter, in order to do both the Sufferers and their Benefactors Juſtice, in taking the ſtricteſt Care to anſwer the End and Deſign of the one, by diſtributing their Alms only amongſt the moſt neceſſitous Part of the other. Of this Sort, I mean of ſuch as are reduc'd to very great Extremities, and are ſtripp'd of all or well nigh all that they were worth, their Number is very great, and their Loſs by the Computation we have made of it, at a moderate Rate, amounts to about 40,000l. The Damage done to the more ſubſtantial Inhabitants (ſeveral of whom have loſt to the Value of 2 or 3000l. a Man, beſides of all the publick Buildings before-mentioned, both which will riſe to a very great Sum) is excluded out of this Account, as not entitled, we think, to any Share of the preſent Collections. But the Loſs alone of the meaner Sort, which I have been ſpeaking of, is ſo much beyond a Poſſibility of Reparation, by every Thing that the Neighbourhood alone can do, how liberal ſoever they have been, that without the charitable Aſſiſtance of more diſtant Places they muſt abſolutely deſpair of Relief.——Where-ever we have applied, I muſt own that we have met with great, and unexpected Compaſſion and Charity; by the Help of which we hope to put People into a Capacity again of following their reſpective Trades and Occupations, and maintaining their Families.

* About, half a Mile in a Right Line, the Street being near as wide as our Cheapſide.

† Theſe two Streets are ſomewhat narrower, but had the Cornmarket-houſe and many good Buildings in them.

The great Difficulty we ſeem to be under at preſent, is to convince the World that a true and faithful Application ſhall be made of all the Money that is given us; and it is a very great Concern to us, that we cannot ſo effectually do it, as to remove all Diſtruſt and Jealouſy about it. Could I obtain as much Credit with the reſt of the World, as I have the Pleaſure and Satisfaction of being aſſur'd of with you and all that know me, I might do ſomething myſelf towards it, when I give it upon my Word and Honour, that we have a juſt Senſe of the great Obligations we are under to all good People for their generous Aſſiſtance; and that the beſt Care is taken by us to anſwer, in the ſtricteſt Manner, their Expectations from us. I have been preſent at the Diſtribution of every Peny that has hitherto been given away, and will continue to be ſo (God willing) till all is diſpos'd of; ſo that as far as my Word will go, I may be allow'd to be a good Witneſs to the Truth of what I have aſſerted.

You will do us great Kindneſs to inculcate this as much as you can, among your Acquaintance in the City, that we ſuffer not in the Diviſion which is about to be made by the Right Hon. the LORD MAYOR, &c. to the poor Sufferers of this Place, Blandford and Ramſey.

We have no one Man of any conſiderable Note and Figure in London to act for us, therefore muſt try to do that by a Number which the Blandford Folks do by the Power and Intereſt of one, and hope we ſhall not fail of a due Proportion of the general Dividend.

All that I can farther ſay for any Gentleman's Satisfaction is, that we keep a Book of our Proceedings; and regiſter therein all and every Sum of Money that we receive, and the Perſons we receive it from, together with an alphabetical Liſt of the Sufferers, their Occupation and Trade, the Circumſtancess of their Loſs, and the Share which they reſpectively receive out of the general Bounty; and this we deſign to publiſh, if it be neceſſary.

I am, &c.

SAMUEL NEWTE.

Yesterday was hung up in the Steeple of the Church adjoining to Christ's-Hospital, a large new Bell, only one being there before.

The same Day about Twelve o'Clock the Battallion of the second Regiment of Foot Guards, lately quarter'd at Rochester, arriv'd at the Parade in St. James's-Park, and were order'd to their respective Quarters; they all came home safe, and in extraordinary good Health, saving one Man, viz. Serjeant Swift, belonging to Col. Lowther's Company, who was unfortunately drowned last Week as he was fishing in the River Medway in a Boat.

Mr. Stephenson, Prebendary of Sarum, for his excellent Defence of the Christian Religion, against the Objections of Mr. Woolston, and others, intitled, A Conference upon the Miracles of our Blessed Saviour.

Death. On Monday last died at Mitcham in Surrey, Mrs. Gascoigne, of Suffolk-street, Charing-Cross.

THURSDAY, August 12.

The King of Spain has appointed his Commissaries to meet those of Great Britain, in order to settle and determine the respective Claims and Demands of the two Kingdoms, agreeable to the Treaty of Seville. And his Catholick Majesty has also ordered, that the Charles Brig. of Gibraltar, which is said to have been taken on the Coast of Barbary, by the Conde Clavijo's Squadron, and carried into Carthagena, for having Moors and Moorish Effects on board, be forthwith set at Liberty.

On Tuesday in the Afternoon a Sailor being at work in the Main-Top of the Ship Unicorn, belonging to the South-Sea Company, in the Wet-Dock at Deptford, in unrigging the Main-Top Mast, he had the Misfortune to fall down upon the Deck; by which Accident he was so violently bruised, that his Life is despaired of. And also the same Day a Man passing over the Dock-Head fell in, and was drowned.

On Monday Night Mr. Orme of Poplar, returning from on board of an India-Man at Blackwall, and being somewhat in Liquor, coming down the Ship-side, the Rope slipt from his Hands, and he fell into the River, and was drowned.

On Tuesday the Horse-Races began on Wimbleton Common, when a Purse of 20 Guineas was run for: Eight Horses started; and the Purse was won by a Bay Stone Horse belonging to the Duke of Leedes, he winning the two first Heats.

Extract of a Letter from Durham, dated August 1.

Last Thursday between Eight and Nine o'Clock we had abundance of Thunder and Lightning, but the former was not so great as the latter, for it never ceased till Eleven; it descended like great Sheets of Fire, which was very terrible to see, and but a small Shower of Rain all the Time it lasted: We had an Account Yesterday by several People that came to our Market from Bishop-Auckland, that the Hail was so large that it broke a vast Number of Windows, and at other Places it did the like Damage, so that we are afraid of hearing dismal Accounts of the Corn being damaged thereby. Yesterday between Four and Five in the Evening it began to thunder and lighten again very much, which continued till about Twelve, and a great Shower of Rain fell with it; and this Morning about Four it began to thunder and lighten again, the like of which was never known here before; and we hear that some People and Horses have been kill'd thereby. We have also an Account from Lincoln that the Weather has been so vastly hot for several Days past, that it was scarce to be indur'd; that the Judges came in almost at Midnight, the excessive Heat hindring them travelling; one of their Coachmen was taken delirious upon the Box, who was forc'd to be left some Miles off, as were some of their Horses through Faintness and Heat; and that on the 31st past, about Six at Night, there fell vast Quantities of Rain and Hail, with very violent Thundering and Lightning. Two Men who were cutting Reeds in Lincoln Fen, and fled to a Shed for Shelter and Security, were struck down, one dead on the Spot, but the other, 'tis hop'd, will recover.

Edinburgh, August 4. We have an Account from Fife, that a Man was killed there by the Thunder and Lightning on Saturday last near Falkland, and that a young Man that was near him at the Time had lost the Use of one of his Legs and Arms, but that it was hoped he would recover; and that several People coming home from a Sermon, before the Sacrament, in that Neighbourhood, were so stifled with the Sulphur, that they remained Speechless for some Time.

Edinburgh, August 5. Several melancholy Accounts are come to Hand since our last, of Misfortunes by the late dreadful Thunder and Lightning, particularly from Caldonhead near Traquare, one William Chisholm, a Shepherd, was killed in the Fields. From Gilmeton on Galla-Water, that a Farmer and his Daughter and a young Man were also killed. From Culross in Perthshire, that a Servant Lad was killed as he was going with his Dinner to the Herds. From Blackford in that Shire, that two Countrymen were killed near that Place. From Teviotdale, that three or four Persons, some Horses, Black Cattle, and Sheep, were also killed. From Coupar in Fife, that a poor Man was killed within four Miles of that Place.

Robberies, &c. On Sunday Evening about Six o'Clock as Mr. Jeffs and his Lady were taking the Air in their Chariot on Hamstead-Heath, they were attack'd by three Foot-pads, from whom they took to the Value of about 7l. and then made off.——Yesterday Morning about Two o'Clock Mr. Holland, a Weaver of Shoreditch, returning home, was robb'd in the Upper-Moorfields by two Foot-pads, who took from him 7s. 6d.——The same Morning Sir John Gonson, and nine or ten more Justices of the Peace for Westminster, met at Covent-Garden Vestry, and examined several Vagabonds, &c. and three of the most notorious of them were committed to Tothill-fields Bridewell to beat Hemp.

Preferments. On Sunday last the Earl of Leicester kiss'd the King's Hand for the Place of Constable of the Tower of London, vacant by the Resignation of the Lord Viscount Lonsdale.——The same Day the Earl of Burlington receiv'd the Gold Staff, as Captain of the Yeomen of the Guard in the room of the Earl of Leicester.——The Rev. Mr. William Laugharne, is made Chaplain to his Grace the Duke of Manchester.

Deaths. On Tuesday Night the Rev. Mr. Searle, Chaplain to the Right Hon. Thomas Lord Lovel, died at his House in Great Russel-street, Bloomsbury-square, of a Mortification in his Arm.——On Monday last died at Abingdon, John Shannon, Esq; formerly an eminent Merchant of this City.

FRIDAY, August 13.

At the Assizes at Lewes for the County of Sussex, which ended last Tuesday, two Persons were convicted capitally upon the Black Act, and received Sentence of Death.

We are assured by the last Treaty, signed June the 6th, between Spain, Great Britain, and the Emperor, the two former, viz. that sign'd at Seville the 30th of November, and that sign'd at Vienna the 16th of March last, are strengthned, and made considerably more extensive.

Some of our Merchants have Letters from Spain which say, that Sir Charles Wager's Squadron was seen off the Coast of Biscay on the 13th Instant, N. S.

On Wednesday Night last a single Highwayman attempted to rob a Coach near the Dunghill, at the Entrance into Hampton-Town from Sunbury; but a Footman on Horseback making some Resistance, the Robber took to his Spurs and rode through the Town of Hampton with his Pistol cock'd in his Hand, and the Footman after him, who unluckily hitching his Bridle in passing through the Gate, the Highwayman got off, it being about Nine o'Clock.

Commitments. Yesterday Morning a Man was committed to Bridewell, for stealing a small Quantity of Tobacco from off the Keys at the Custom-house.——On Tuesday a Woman was committed to New Prison for feloniously stealing two Silver Spoons, a lac'd Suit of Headcloths, and other Goods.

Preferments. Roger Jones, of Buckland in the County of Brecon, Esq; is made Steward of the King's Lordship of Penkelly in the said County, in the room of Sir William Morgan, Knight of the Bath, deceased.——The Rev. Mr. Plummer was a few Days since elected Master of Rugby School in Warwickshire. The said Mr. Plummer is likewise inducted into the Rectory of Bilton in the same County, and into the Rectory of Colsworth in Northamptonshire, and worth about a 150l. a Year.

Marriages. On Wednesday Morning Capt. Thomas Harwood, Officer of a Merchant-Man trading to Virginia, was married to Miss Sarah Wheatley, a 7000l. Fortune.——On Monday last Miss Veal of Lambeth, only Daughter of Thomas Veal, Esq; was married at Mitcham, to John Charnock, Esq; a Gentleman of a plentiful Fortune in the County of Bucks.——William Haselem, a Wiltshire Man, aged 111 Years, belonging to Chelsea-College, was lately married, this being the third Wife he has wedded since he was 100 Years old. He was a Soldier in Oliver Cromwell's Time, and is now in a good State of Health, and able to work at a Coal-Wharf.

Yesterday Morning died Mr. Reading, who was many Years Beadle of St. James's Parish, upwards of 60 Years of Age; and a few Hours before his Wife departed this Life.——The same Day died at Ockham in Surrey, Mr. Pawley, who has been Under Sheriff for that County many Years.

FOREIGN NEWS.

CADIZ, July 31. N. S. It is confidently reported, that the Flota and Assogues Treasure will not be delivered until the Galleons arrive: The Detention has already greatly distressed the Commerce, and we are like to continue in Misery much longer: But on the other hand, we are secure of Peace and Quietness, and hourly expect the British Squadron, under Sir Charles Wager. Our Governor has received Orders from Court to give him a kind Reception, and send a handsome Refreshment of Provisions and Wine to each of his Ships.

Barcelona, August 5. N. S. The Spaniards are now very busy with making the necessary Preparations for sending 6000 Soldiers to Italy, and most of them are actually drawn down into the Neighbourhood of this City, to be in Readiness for imbarking at short Warning. What Transports will be made Use of are already taken up, being single deck Vessels, fitted up to carry Horse.

Genoa, August 7. N. S. The Transports, with about 4000 Imperial Troops, sailed last Night for Corsica, and as they were all Veterans, we expect great Success from them, and that the Natives will soon be reduced. We have Letters from Algier, dated the 14th ult. advising, that a British Ship called the Neptune, William Wilson Master, was brought in there the Day before, whose Cargo was condemned, but the Ship and her Crew, 'twas believed, would not only be released, but that the Freight she would have made by the Voyage she was upon, would be paid to the Captain. She was bound from Lisbon to Hamburgh, and unfortunately had not got a Pass of the new Cut.

Hague, August 14. N. S. Since the last Assembly of the States of Holland, nothing has occurred here, that we know of, tending to forward the Accession of the Republick to the Treaty of Vienna: Neither is it expected, that that Affair will be brought to a Decision, till their High Mightinesses have received the Emperor's final Answer, which is expected from Day to Day. Mean while, they talk of convening the States of this Province Extraordinarily, if there should be Occasion, rather than retard any longer the Conclusion of that important Affair. The News of the Resolution of the States of Holland to accede, having reached the Court of France, it occasioned a very great Surprize there; and even, if we may credit some Advices, put the French Ministry into a Sort of Consternation: Enough to prove, that it was a Blow they did not expect. Hereupon they talk of nothing at Paris, it seems, but Preparations for War; but we can hardly believe them to be in earnest, especially since the Dyet of the Swiss Cantons is broke up without coming to any Resolution about renewing the perpetual Alliance with that Crown: For this was looked upon as the Touch-Stone, by which one might draw infallible Consequences; and France must have been glad, in case of a War, to sacrifice the two Millions, which, it is said, the Renewing of that Alliance would cost her, and to comply with the Protestant Cantons upon their own Terms into the Bargain, though they would have insisted (as we hear) upon her breaking the particular Alliance between that Crown and the Popish Cantons.
